

June 26, 2014

Supertall Tower 3 Hudson Boulevard Gets its Own Website

By Jessica Dailey

Work has yet to begin on Moinian Group's planned 1,050-foot-tall tower near Hudson Yards, but the future building now has its own website (h/t YIMBY), with new renderings and details about the FXFOWLE-designed tower. It was reported today that the developer secured a ground loan, so construction should start any day now. The building will be located at 3 Hudson Boulevard, a pedestrian greenway that's currently under construction, and it will have frontage on 11th Avenue and 34th Street. The lower half will hold offices, with two six-story exterior LED screens displaying occupants' branding, and floors 49 through 63 will may possibly hold condos, depending on how much space the anchor tenant wants. But sadly, the website is only about the commercial spaces; no new details were released about the condos.